

ISPS UK is an organisation genuinely interested in the human experience of psychosis and in humane responses to help people recover.

We promote dialogue and understanding – at local and international levels – between different perspectives on the nature of psychosis and the benefits of psychological approaches.

Why we are special

- We are part of an international organisation and we are influencing mental health practice across the globe
- We are an inclusive organisation of different mental health professions, service users and carers
- We bridge the different psychological treatment models
- We keep therapeutic hope alive

What we do

- We support practice development and innovation
- We champion integration and encourage dialogue between different approaches
- We open people's eyes to new perspectives

Join ISPS UK* and get the following benefits

In a survey of UK mental health professionals 67% said the best thing about ISPS UK is the networking opportunities

- Subscription to Psychosis, the new international journal for psychological, social and integrative approaches (normally £36 pa to individual subscribers)
- 20% off all books in the ISPS series published by Routledge
- Reduced rates at ISPS regional, national and international conferences
- Our regular Newsletters with articles, book reviews & conference reviews
- Membership of the ISPS UK email info and discussion group
- Local and national networking opportunities

 Full membership £40, concessions £15 or £10 – see Application Form for details.

In a survey of UK mental health professionals 73% said ISPS UK is vital or very useful to their work.

For further information go to www.isps.org/uk
email admin@ispsuk.org or phone 0845 1664168

